WANAMAKER IN LONDON Guest of Lord Mayor at Mansion

House-Presented to King. London, July 2 -- A significant incident in the past week, characterizing the tendency in England to encourage friendship with America and Americans, has been the visit of John Wanamaker to the Mansion House as a guest of Sir Thomas Vezey

Strong, the Lord Mayor of London, an old personal friend. On Thursday Mr. Wanamaker occupied a seat near the King and Queen at the thanksgiving services in St. Paul's Cathedral, and later sat next to the Lord Mayor at Guildhall, when the King made a speech of thanks for the loyal welcome accorded him. On Friday Mr. Wanamaker visited Crystal Palace, where he was presented by the Lord Mayor to the King, who, after a conversation with the American merchant, presented him to the Queen. Wanamaker will remain at the Mansion House until next Thursday, when he will sail for New York on the Olympic.

WHAT TOWNS OR CITIES DO THESE PICTURES REPRESENT?

NOTICE TO CONTESTANTS

THE coupon upon which contestants are re-

Contestants must indicate the town and city represented by the picture upon the coupon provided therefor. Goupons may be filled out with pen, pencil, typewriter or printed in any manner to suit the fancy of the contestant.

Where contestants are not certain as to the name of the town and city illustrated they will be permitted to send five—not more—answers to each picture. If the correct answer is given incorrect answers will not count against the contestant. Only three answers may be written upon a single coupon. Extra blanks should be used for additional answers, and all answers to the same number should be kept together in making up the set. Where contestants wish to submit but one or two extra answers they may do so without filling out the entire coupon. Although several members of a family may compets in the contest, only one prize will be awarded to any one household or member thereof, and only one set of answers may be submitted by any individual contestant. Participation in any other contest now being run will not debar any one from entering this contest.

Hold all answers until after the end of the contest, then arrange your answers in neat, numerical order, fasten the coupons securely together, and deliver or mail them, wrapped in a neat, flat package (not folded or rolled), plainly addressed to the CONTEST MANAGER, NEW-YORK TRIBUME. New York City. The time of receiving answers will have no effect upon the awarding of prizes. However, all answers must be deposited at the office of the New York Tribune or in the mails on or before midnight, September 12, 1911.

The prizes will be awarded to the contestants sending in the correct or nearest correct list of names to the entire sarries of towns and cities liturations. In the event of a tie between two or more persons the contestant answering the greatest number of blanks will be declared the winner. In case two or more contestants submit the largest number of correct answers upon the same number of coupons, the cash value of the prize will be divided.

the same number of coupons, the cash value of the prise will be divided.

A judging committee, to be announced later, will make the awards strictly upon the merits of correctness and similarity of the exact wording and spelling of the names of the towns and cities as will be selected by The Tribune and as contained in The Tribune's Towns and Cities Catalogue.

Where a set of answers is securely fastened together the contestant will be permitted to stamp (with rubber stamp) or abbreviate his or her name upon the space allotted for same, and omit the full address from the greater majority of the blanks, provided that such full name and postoffice address are plainly written upon the first six and last six coupons of the set.

Unparalleled Interest Marked First Week of Tribune's New and Fascinating Contest

Great Competition Is Attracting the Attention of Thousands Throughout City and Country.

SECOND WEEK BEGINS TO-DAY

O-DAY marks the beginning of the SECOND WEEK of The Tribune's new and fascinating contest. The competition is just seven days old, and if you have not yet entered you couldn't do better than to begin at once. The way is simple. You need only secure the back numbers of all of the first seven instalments of the puzzle pictures, then follow up the contest each day by buying a copy of The New-York Tribune, and try to supply the names of the towns and cities the pictures represent. This, together with a careful reading of the rules of the contest, will equip you with sufficient informa-tion to place yourself in line to win an automobile, a player piano, a handsome set of furniture or one of a thousand other prizes.

The increased orders for thousands of additional copies of The Tribune, back numbers of the puzzles and requests for the Contest Catalogue show plainly the widespread popularity of the contest.

Every one who has studied the pictures that have been published admits that the amusing and entertaining features of the competition are beyond question. Also, the number of mail orders that are received daily by the Contest Department points to the fact that outof-town readers are solving the pictures with as much enthusiasm and determination as those in the city.

Of course, it is well understood that the contest is open to every one. Both young and old will find entertainment and profit in it, and all have the same opportunity of sharing in the rewards.

The long list of prizes is the goal. There are over housand of them, and their total value is more than

The solving of the puzzle pictures is made extremely easy by the aid of The Tribune's Towns and Cities Contest Catalogue, which will be issued as a guide and reference for contestants. The work of printing this Catalogue is nearly completed, and it will be on sale in a very few days.
